Those who are going to need any cottons for the next year to come we would advise them to read John Vandersluis' adv. in this issue. That's right, John, that is the kind of hustlers we want in Holland, who give us good goods at reasonable prices.

Martin of Grand Rapids at 8:30 o'clock. Only relatives were invited. Both are well known and popular young people and have the best wishes of the community. The groom is engaged in the drug business on River street. They will reside on west Fourteenth street.

In a book entitled "Tours in Michigan" the C. & W. M. R. R. Co. in speaking of Macatawa Park and its surroundings it says: "Holland, a city of 4,000 inhabitants, is six miles distant. Now it is certainly strange that anyone who knows better should make such an erroneous statement. In the census figures of last year Holland's population is given at 6,307 and at present it is certainly over 7,000. The census figures of the cities in Michigan have been published in the papers several times and must have come under the observation of the publishers of the above book. They cannot claim that they did not know better. And is it not a most unkind cut for a corporation that gets the amount of patronage from Holland that the C. & W. M. does to belittle the town in such a way? The C. & W. M. Co. can not deny that Holland is one of the best towns on their line. Then why not do it justice? In mentioning Macatawa Park it says, "Macatawa Park (post-office Ottawa Beach)." That's another. Holland is the post-office for Macatawa Park and resorters stopping at Macatawa Park should see to it that their mail is directed "Macatawa Park, post-office Holland."

Everybody catches fish nowadays. Large strings of black bass, also, perch, bull-heads, sun fish, and on occasional pickerel and muscullunge are daily being caught. It is noticeable how fishing has improved since efforts were made to stop fishing with nets. Let nets be kept out of Macatawa Bay and we have the best fishing grounds in the state.

Johannes De Weerd received a letter Monday from his brother Albert of Sioux Center, Iowa, in which he states that during the cyclone which visited that section last Friday, his four children were quite severely injured while attending school, two of whom received a broken leg. Rev. C. M. Steffens leaves to-day for Rochester, N. Y., where he will labor for the Ref. church at that place. Mr. Steffens' departure will be regretted by all, and especially by our young men, as he has labored continually for their interests in Y. M. C. A. work. He was everybody's friend and his influence will be missed. Mr. Steffens has the best wishes of all for a bountiful harvest in his new field of labor.

Rev. J. T. Bergen of Brooklyn, N. Y., formerly pastor of Hope Church, has accepted the position to the chair of Ethics and Evidence of Christianity at Hope College. The college is to be congratulated in securing such a valuable addition to its corps of instructors and his coming will meet with the unanimous approval of our citizens and the friends of the institution. That it is a source of pleasure to our young people and especially to our Y. M. C. A. members is evidence of the high respect which Mr. Bergen has gained from them during the few years that he has labored in our midst.

The worst thunder storm of the season passed over here Monday night. Lightning struck in several places in this city. A house occupied by Frank Wierda on Fourteenth street was struck, the bolt shattering the bed and setting it afire. Luckily the family had not retired. A house on east Seventh street, belonging to Mrs. C. V. R. Gilmore was also struck and badly damaged. The electric light meter in Masonic hall was burned out and the firemen were obliged to force open the door when it was speedily put out. Twenty-seven of the Chase phones were burned out. A number of places in the surrounding country have been heard from where lightning struck poles or trees.

About two years ago Charlie F. Post, Jr., son of C. F. Post, residing north of this city, was employed on the steamer Macatawa. While on the boat he became acquainted with Mr. Westervelt of South Bend, Ind., and the result was that eighteen months ago he was hired to drive the delivery wagon for a wholesale paper house in which Mr. Westervelt is interested. In less than a year young Charles was placed in the office at the books. A short time ago a new firm C. H. Dunkle & Co., dealers in paper, started up and they hired Charles as business manager at a good salary. He is twenty years old and his rapid advancement shows what a young man can accomplish if he is faithful and applies himself to his work.

OTTAWA COUNTY TIMES

HOLLAND, MICH., FRIDAY, MAY 10 1896.

FRIGHTFUL.

AWFUL RESULTS OF FRIDAY'S CY-CLONE IN THE WEST.

Many Towns in the Path of the Tornado Devastated.

IOWA, SOUTH DAKOTA AND MISSOURI
SUFFER.

School Houses and Other Buildings Levelled
—Children Killed, Picked Up and Borne Away.

Sioux City, Ia., May 4.—The wind storm which passed over northwestern Iowa and southeastern Dakota late yesterday afternoon, left death and destruction in its path. The property loss was immense, but the loss of life can as yet only be estimated. The storm, widespread as it was, appears to have been a true cyclone in places and in other parts of its territory partook more of the nature of a tornado, and in others, even where damage was considerable,
was not more than a gale of wind, with severe hail and rain. The severest cyclone had its course for twelve or fifteen miles in Sioux county. The same storm, or another one, touched at Sibley and did great damage there. In South Dakota, even where there was severe destruction, there appears to have been no real cyclone, with the swirling funnel-shaped clouds. The Sioux county cyclone appears to have originated near Ireton and to have traveled northeast

to a point on the Sioux City & Northern road one and one-half miles north of Sioux Center. Then it took the course of a letter S, crossing the track twice, and for two miles it seems to have formed straight up the track of this railway. It struck the town of Perkins from the southwest and those who saw it there believed it rose or was dissipated at that point, but it is possible the same awful cloud continued its tortuous
course and afterward struck Sibley.

From Sioux Center and other places in Sioux county, estimates come that no less than twenty have been killed and two or three times as many injured.
As the path of destruction was almost altogether in the country, definite information is difficult to get.

Everett Arnold, aged 18, was struck by lightning and killed at Creston. The storm there was the most severe for years. Rain, hail and wind carried away many small buildings. North of Ireton, George and Anna Marsden were killed. The schoolhouses in which they were teaching, two miles apart, were demolished. Their relatives live at Rosebush, Wis.

Eight children are still missing from the Haggie schoolhouse, four miles north of Sioux Center. It is supposed that they were killed. Twenty-seven houses were demolished, barns and other buildings carried away.

Some persons estimate the death toll between 200 and 250, but it is not believed it will reach that number. No one as yet can tell how great the loss of life is, or how extensive the damage until reports from the outlying districts have been received. The telegraph wires in this section are all down and authentic information is hard to get.

Three schoolhouses are known to have been demolished, two teachers and several pupils and nearly a score of others killed and many buildings wrecked.

A curious feature of the cyclone was the accompaniment of electrical violence and many deaths by lightning are reported. The towns of Sioux Center, Ireton, Orange City, Perkins, Doon,
Hull, Sheldon, Alton, Ashton, Sibley,
and Le Mars were almost directly in the path of the cyclone. The storm was followed by furious wind and rainfall, which had not abated at an early hour this morning. Numerous victims were found lodged in trees, where they had been hurled by the wind. Where had stood fine residences could be found nothing but a cellar hole, and in some cases a few twisted timbers, while strewn all over the ground were portions of buildings and furniture bearing not the least semblance of their original form and useless except for kindling.

Fields of sprouting grain are now bare,
trees uprooted and all is desolation
along the path of the cyclone.

A pitiful feature of the disaster is the number of youthful lives lost by the cruel wind. Three schoolhouses near Sioux Center were destroyed while school was in progress, and in each one from three to ten children were killed or injured. Many of the children were carried from a quarter to half a mile before they were dropped. Two little daughters of John Koster, a farmer near Sioux Center, were picked up as they were leaving the schoolhouse and dashed into a wire fence where both were killed. The two sons of C. H.
Haggie, at the same schoolhouse, had their legs broken and received other injuries from which they will die. Mr.
Haggie's house is near the school and although he escaped, his daughter was so badly injured that she cannot live.

The parents of many of the children escaped the storm and are nearly frantic with anxiety to learn whether their little ones are dead or alive.

Fifteen killed and two score more or less injured is the revised list of the victims of Friday night's cyclone which swept northwest Iowa. Ten of the dead and most of the injured lived in the vicinity of Sioux Center, which seems to have been the culminating point of the tornado. A reporter went over the scene of the storm to-day. Its path is almost as clearly cut as a wagon road
and everything in its path was demolished—barns, houses, etc., strewn the country for miles.

The only person killed in Osceola county was Mrs. John Watterman, five miles west of Sibley. A jolt fell on her neck. She held her baby in her arms and the baby escaped injury. John Watterman, her husband, was injured in the breast and face seriously. Wm.
Watterman, his son, had his right arm broken and left shoulder broken. Chas.
Rossburg was badly bruised. Henry,
his son, was cut badly about the head.
Mrs. Chas. Rossburg was blown into a tree, but not seriously hurt. Herman, a boy, Otto and

Persons who sympathize with the afflicted will rejoice with D. E. Carr of 1235 Harrison street, Kansas City. He is an old sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism, but has not heretofore been troubled in this climate. Last winter he went up into Wisconsin, and in consequence has had another attack. "It came upon me again very acute and severe," he said. "My joints swelled and became inflamed; sore to touch or almost to look at. Upon the urgent request of my mother-in-law I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm to reduce the swelling and ease the pain, and to my agreeable surprise, it did both. I have used three fifty-cent bottles and believe it to be the finest thing for rheumatism, pains, and swellings extant. For sale by H. Walsh, druggist.

Compressed Air in Machine Shops.

Machine shop use of compressed air has been growing rapidly of late, and a varied service is now being regularly performed by compressed air appliances which not a great while ago were decidedly exceptional. Compressed air shop hoists, perhaps more than any other similar class of apparatus, have come into favor and are extensively employed over lathes, planers, drill presses and other tools, greatly facilitating the handling of pieces of work too heavy to be lifted without some special contrivance. Some of these hoists are permanent fixtures, others are suspended from trolleys running on overhead rails and can be readily shifted about from one point to another, as occasion may require, taking their supply of air through flexible hose connections, and being thus available for miscellaneous hoisting service, loading and unloading freight and the like. In one large railroad shop in the western part of the United States small hoisting cylinders are scattered promiscuously about and save an immense amount of manual labor in lifting and handling materials at the different machines. They consist of 10 inch wrought iron pipe, not bored, but simply rattled, and afterward still further smoothed by pressing a mandrel through them. The air valves for the cylinders are conveniently worked by a regulating lever and chain.—Cassier's Magazine.

Can You Keep Your Hand Still?

Thought provokes action. Think of doing something, and (unconsciously, perhaps) you begin to do it.

In the university of Wisconsin Professor Jastrow has an instrument called the autograph, which shows very clearly and precisely the automatic movements of the hand.

It consists merely of a piece of glass resting on three movable metal feet, or, in other words, it is a small carriage which will shift its position at the slightest movement.

At the end is a needle fixed vertically, and in contact with a roll of paper covered with a layer of lampblack. If the apparatus moves, the movement is traced on the paper by the needle. Both paper and needle are hidden by a screen.

Professor Jastrow tells you to rest your hand upon the glass and keep it perfectly still. This appears quite easy, but when you think that your hand is quite motionless you find to your surprise that the needle is tracing lines on the paper.

The fact is you cannot keep your hand still. Unconsciously and invisibly it moves with your thoughts. Look at that pair of scales, watch how the rod goes this way and that way as the scales move. Now look at the black paper. You will find that your hand has been moving exactly in agreement with the movement of the rod.

Mrs. M. A. Dorchester.

Mrs. Merial A. Dorchester, wife of Rev. Dr. Daniel Dorchester, who died recently in Melrose, Mass., was a woman of much strength and character. She heartily enlisted in her husband's work when Dr. Dorchester was made Indian commissioner by President Harrison. She was appointed to take charge of the educational interests of Indian women and spent four years in founding schools and other institutions for them.

A Ship For a Monument.

The most remarkable monument that has ever been erected over a grave in the United States or in any other civilized country perhaps is the reproduction of an old time whaling vessel, which is to be seen in one of the Boston cemeteries. It is a fine specimen of the shipbuilder's art, finished in iron and clouded marble, and marks the last resting place of a departed sea captain.—St. Louis Republic.

OTTAWA COUNTY.

ZEELAND.

Sheriff P. R. Schaap of Orange City, Iowa, was spending a few days with his parents and relatives last week, but hastily returned home when he heard of the terrible cyclone there. Wm. De Pree received a letter from his brother Rev. James De Pree this week confirming the alarming newspaper reports from Sioux county. The family of the domine escaped unhurt.

There are great rejoicings and expectations among the members of the gun club, for news was received from the missing hares. The gun club rabbit-farm (hare-farm I mean) a score to be enlarged when the new arrivals make their appearance. There is talk of renting a farm and other important improvements, as the present quarters will soon be too small for the increasing population of the gun club farm. Farm superintendent F. Vandenberg has just finished building several cottages for the stock. At its last meeting the club passed a resolution, thanking H. H. Karsten for his endeavors in behalf of the long-lost hares.

Our town had a visit last Friday from the smallest travelling man on the road. It was E. W. Diesdorf, representing the S. C. W. Cigar Co. of Grand Rapids. The gentleman who is only 44 inches high is as successful a salesman as any big member of the craft. Mr. Diesdorf is also an expert telegraph operator and well known in railroad circles.

A terrific electrical storm passed over our village Monday night. No damage was done here, but a report comes from Beaverdam that the house of P. Van Gelderen, brother to our harness-maker, was considerably damaged by lightning.

Mrs. G. J. Wissink, an old lady living near our village, died Monday.

Mrs. Scheele of Beaverdam, well and favorably known here, is reported very low with lung trouble.

The furniture factory commenced working Monday on standard time and its whistle is now heard in harmony with the other melodious time-indicators.

Wonders will happen as was pointed out to us the other day. At the last shoot of the gun club (our club still holds shoots, neighbor) H. Fisher led the boys with a score of 15 out of 25.

The west end of our village has lately been having sport all by itself. Druggist Dick Van Bree bought himself a bicycle and has been trying by the sweat of his brow to stay on top of the frisky thing. According to latest reports he has succeeded, even if it had to cost him a slice of "nasal cuticle." Others have had the same experience.

The first excursion of the season passed through here Sunday and took a few sight seers from here to Grand Rapids.

C. Boone has entered some of his stock in the Chicago sale to be held this month.

E. Pruim has taken charge of the restaurant formerly owned by his father and will greatly improve it, making it first-class in all respects. No sarcastic outsiders will be able to find reason for sour remarks when Evert takes hold of the business. Mrs. J. Pruim will have the immediate supervision of the table and kitchen.

The contract for sprinkling main street will be left to the lowest bidder, a resolution to that effect having been passed at the last board-meeting.

The contract for street lighting will also be given to the lowest bidder.

Rumor says that John Jager has for some time past been entertaining the solemn thought of committing matrimony and has decided to take the step. It certainly is a good move and we congratulate him.

PORT SHELDON.

A. T. Clark, the manufacturer of the Clark Cutaway Harrow, was here last week to help the agent Chris B. Cook start a revolving plow, which was sold to Mr. Oyens. It is the leading machine now on the market. They also had good success with the harrow.

Michigan Crop Report.

Lansing, May 8.—Wheat and grass are making little growth. April was a month of high temperature and light rainfall. There was not sufficient rain to be of appreciable benefit anywhere in the State after the 13th of the month, and before the 13th the rainfall amounted to less than one-half of the normal for the month. The normal rainfall for April, as determined by observations extending through a long series of years, is, for the State, 2.44 inches. The average rainfall in the State in April for five years has been as follows: 1894, 2.28 inches; 1893, 4.43 inches; 1892, 2.13 inches; 1891, 1.95 inches; and 1890, 3.09 inches.

Since May 1, there have been light showers in the State, but the average rainfall in the southern and central counties does not exceed one-seventh of the normal for the same period.

The average condition of wheat as estimated by correspondents is as follows, comparison being with vitality and growth of average years: Southern four tiers of counties, 77 per cent; central, 87 per cent; northern, 89 per cent, and State, 80 per cent. One year ago when temperature and rainfall were both favorable during April the average condition in the southern and central counties was 89, in the northern 95 and the State 90.

Very little wheat will be plowed up this year because winter-killed or otherwise destroyed, and very few correspondents mention damage to the crop by insects.

The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers in April is $10,226, and in nine months, August-April, 9,670,541, which is 2,942,647 bushels less than reported marketed in the same months last year. At 39 elevators and mills from which reports have been received, there was no wheat marketed during the month.

Grass, like wheat, is backward because of the drouth. The meadows are not yet ruined, but an abundance of rain must soon come or they will be greatly damaged. One year ago they were in prime condition.

Apples and peaches promise fairly good crops. The averages for the southern counties are, apples 84 and peaches 81 per cent; central counties, apples 87 and peaches 88 per cent; northern counties, apples 97 and peaches 94 per cent, and State, apples 86 and peaches 82 per cent. WASHINGTON GARDNER, Secretary of State.

HERE IS THE LAW.

Timely Information for Doubtful Hunters and Fishermen.

"The present legislature is making some very radical changes in the game and fish laws," said Deputy Game Warden Brewster, "and all in the line of more stringent measures to protect game and game fishes."

"The alarming depletion of streams and inland lakes of the gamey 'speckled beauties' and bass during the few years preceding 1891, stirred the sportsmen throughout the state to take every means possible in the line of better protection from pot and market fishermen, while the commercial fisheries dwindled down to a point where it became a matter of necessity that something be speedily done in order that whitefish and trout might not be totally exterminated from the waters of the great lakes. The deer on the famous ranges of the northern counties were also fast becoming a thing of the past."

"By the united efforts of the state board of fish commissioners and the state game warden system all this is changed. The wise and earnest efforts of the fish commissioners have replanted the streams, while the state warden and his assistants have kept the violations reduced to a minimum. Fishermen report better fishing this season so far than in fifteen years, while reports from fifty counties show a marked increase of game."

"The bill of Mr. Foote of Kalamazoo, which is now a law, makes a uniform season for killing deer throughout the state, Nov. 1 to the 25th of same month; compels every hunter to be provided with a license; this costs a resident of the state fifty cents and a non-resident $25; prohibits the killing of more than five deer by any person during the season and the shipping beyond the boundaries of the state."

"The fish bill of Mr. Robertson prohibits the catching of bass of any kind during the month of May; shortens the season for catching brook trout and grayling by cutting off the last fifteen days of August; makes it unlawful to take fish from any of the inland waters of the state except with hook and line, and prohibits absolutely the buying or selling of speckled trout or grayling at any season of the year. Changes the maximum penalty from $50 or thirty days imprisonment to $200 or six months imprisonment. These measures, with more funds to enforce the laws, will meet the approbation of every lover of the gun and rod throughout the state, and if outsiders object to paying the license required of them we will all feel quite as well if they stay away. We do not want them very badly, anyhow."

Thanking our patrons for their past favors, we extend a cordial invitation to you and to the breeding and horse loving public to come and examine this horse and his colts for themselves and you will be convinced.

Holland is witnessing another building boom. In addition to the large number of residences being erected in every part of the city, several fine business blocks are in course of construction. Contractors and carpenters alike are all kept busy and but few of our citizens are out of employment. Our industries are kept a-humming, our merchants report a good trade, and outsiders who visit our city are amazed at its rapid advancement along all lines. Our elegant lake steamers are getting ready for service and the resort season promises to eclipse all previous years. The day is fast drawing nigh when its population will reach the 10,000 mark.

Some of the Michigan railroads are now completing totals of the cost of keeping their trains in operation against the unusually heavy snows of last winter. The largest cost to any one road fell to the Chicago & West Michigan. Along the lake near Benton Harbor, on the Muskegon branch, and a short stretch near Grand Rapids, the cost of clearing off the tracks of snow and ice represented a good-sized fortune. For the Muskegon branch alone this work cost $20,000 for one blizzard. The entire expense of snow shoveling and plowing for this road went nearly to the $50,000 mark, estimated to be more than double the average outlay of other years.

Continuing, the Judge says: "Only those should be returned who are of good character and of integrity, of sound judgment and well informed, and thoroughly conversant with the English language—such men as you would be willing to have sit as jurors in any important case which you might have in circuit court."—Allegan Gazette.

One of the boldest burglaries ever committed in the county occurred in Coopersville, Saturday night, about nine o'clock. The residence of Mrs. B. A. Allen, a wealthy widow lady, was entered and nearly $1200 stolen.

Mrs. Allen lives in the house with her daughter. Both were away at the time. Mrs. Allen was visiting at the home of a neighbor and sat at a window directly overlooking her place. The thief entered the house through a window and secured $1100 in paper, gold and silver money. Also six notes running to Daniel Allen and a pair of ladies kid shoes, one pair of ladies gaiters, one pair of gold spectacles and one dress waist. Mrs. Allen discovered the fact when she returned home. Sheriff Keppel worked on the case all Sunday. A stranger in the town selling spectacles was taken in tow, but there was no case against him and he was released. The burglary is believed to be the work of Coopersville talent. It will go on record as one of the biggest hauls ever made in the county. Mrs. Allen offers $400 for the recovery of the money and goods and the sheriff a reward of $100 for the thief or thieves. MRS. A. D. GOODRICH.

A Vision That Came to a Listener While the Fiddler Played.

Every man has somewhere in his memory pictures that come vividly before his mind's eye, summoned perhaps at will, perhaps by a word, by some feature of an alien landscape, by an odor, by a few notes of music—in short, by any one of the things, tangible or intangible, that serve mysteriously to link the past and present in the individual mind. One of a company listening to an excellent fiddler the other night suddenly found that by some unguessed principle of association the music was calling up half forgotten scenes. Doubtless in the case of many others present memory was busy while the music sounded. Here are some of the things that came before the listener in question:

The lights of the room where the audience sat were shining in his eyes, but what he saw was not there, only a shrouded sky of a sultry June night after a storm, with uneasy mutters of with-drawing thunders in the air, drops still falling from the dense foliage of the trees, and here and there overhead a single star shining in a rift that showed an irregular bit of the blue black and velvety heavens. The "big road" stretched white, far up and down through the gloom, and one could distinguish inky masses of high foliage about a homestead. Just across the road from the homestead there was a splash of warm light from the half open door of the country store, and passing from gloom to gloom through the light were occasional silhouetted figures of whites and negroes in rough straw hats and working clothes. The scent of a purple dotted clover field hard by the store was heavy on the sullen atmosphere. There was much talk, and there came from the region of the store loud negro laughter and boisterous negro salutations. Then the cry of a pump handle under a vigorous arm was heard, and there passed into the store through the broad ribbon of light a great earthen pitcher, dripping with fresh drawn water. Now the wheels of a swift drawn carriage cut through the wet sand of the road, and a moment later the steaming figure of a well made horse was seen belted with light from the doorway. A man alighted, whip in hand. Some of the crowd drew near and talked of the steaming horse, and one backed him so that his keen head with its distended nostrils and foaming mouth were well within the stream of light. The driver, his purchase made, stepped into his carriage and was soon swallowed up in the gloom, while the crowd talked of him and his horse until the echo of his wheels died in the distance.

Suddenly a negro began to play the jews-harp, another fell to putting juba, and three or four began to dance, while the others looked on with odd half savage cries of applause and loud guffaws. The thin metallic music went crinkling through the veins of all that heard, and one after another, though wearied with a long day's work, fell into the hard athletic dance. The music and the dancing continued till the last white man filed out of the store and the door was locked on the gloomy interior. Everybody knew then that it was 10 o'clock, and all trudged off their several ways, save two or three negroes who remained, their voices gradually sinking low into the confidential talk that comes upon small companies under the spell of night.

An hour later the later risen moon was silencing the surface of a great tidal river, in sight from the upper windows of the homestead. The two or three negroes were still gossiping in the gloom at the corner of the store, one of them occasionally giving short, weird, melancholy touches on the jews-harp. They had gone before midnight, and the place was silent, save for the distant melodies of other negroes singing in chorus as they trudged homeward on the highways under the now cloudless and moonlit sky. An hour later these haunting melodies had died out of the air, and there were only silence, moonlight and the odor from the clover field left to possess the region along with the mysterious summer night, until earliest dawn should put to flight moonlight and mystery, wake the birds and call men to the day's activities.—New York Sun.

You say a collar and cuff that are waterproof? Yes. And perspiration will not affect them? Yes. And when dirty you need only wipe them off with a wet cloth or sponge? Yes. Wonderful! How are they made? A linen collar covered on both sides with waterproof "CELLULOID." Looks exactly like a linen collar. Is it the only waterproof collar and cuff made? No, but it is the only one made with the linen interlining and consequently the only one that can give entire satisfaction, because it is the best. How can I know that I get the right kind? Because every piece is stamped as follows:

TRADE MARK.
CELLULOID
Inquire for that and refuse anything else, or you will be disappointed. Suppose my dealer does not have them? He probably has, but if not, send direct to us, enclosing amount. Collars 25c., Cuffs 50c. State size, and whether collar wanted is stand-up or turned-down.
